

Robin Peppe Sterneck is a seasoned executive and board director who brings 35 years of business and leadership experience to her financial planning services and executive leadership keynotes, workshops, roundtables, best practice coaching sessions and real-life story telling.

Robin's work as an Investment Banker at Lehman Brothers and her executive leadership roles in Financial Services at GE and Swiss Re after a landscape changing merger, arm her with a broad breadth of first-hand, business growth and human capital advancement experience and strategies. As the Global Pricing Leader at GE Capital and then $1B P&L Leader at GE Insurance and subsequently, by request, Head of Talent Development at Swiss Re, Robin has always lived by the adage that "People make the numbers".

Today she enables others to optimize their financial lives and professional careers and drives company growth through her strategy setting, coaching roles and Board work. As the co-facilitator of the Emerging Leaders Program at the UMKC Bloch School/Central Exchange, she has helped advance the careers of more than 1,000 high potential leaders internationally. Through this year-long program, and her former leadership development work at Washington University in St. Louis, she has ongoing insight to hundreds of organizations and continues to build and share a cutting-edge leadership toolkit.

Robin currently serves on the Board of EPR Properties ("EPR"), a publicly traded Real Estate Investment Trust. She serves as the Compensation and Human Capital Committee Chair for EPR. Robin is also an Advisory Board Member for EDA Inc., a technology firm that is bringing culture insights to life. She is the Co-Chair of the Kansas City Chapter of Women Corporate Directors and served as a Director on the National Association of Corporate Directors Heartland Chapter Board and is a tenured Fellow. Her prior board work includes a community foundation, school board, financial institution and several not-for-profit community and social services support organizations.

As a financial advisor, coach, mentor and Director Robin actively supports the professional and financial advancement of leaders and companies. In her spare time, she enjoys travelling, working out and trying to keep up with her four adult children.
